

For immediate release
November 2009

Networking thrives on the golf course

Chamber of Commerce golf event sees 20% rise in attendance

Over 100 city businesspeople attended the Edinburgh Chamber of Commerce golf networking event held at Kingsbarns yesterday proving that networking is alive and well on the golf course, despite the recession.

The ninth and final outing for the golf club this year, the event saw attendee numbers increase by 20% compared to 2008.

The event was sponsored by Edinburgh-based Cullen Property, which specialises in acquiring and managing properties for clients looking to invest in and let out residential property in the city.

Steve Coyle, Cullen Property Operations Director, says: "It was an enjoyable day and a useful opportunity to network with like-minded businesspeople. It was great to see so many people attend and we have had great feedback as to the many positive business relationships formed as a result."

Winners in the team category were Stephen Mackenzie and Andy Murray, co-owners of The Clubhouse, Ewan Miller, and Andy Murray. Individual winner was Chris Montgomery, MD of Sound and Vision.

The golf club, which holds events at various golf courses in the Lothians, Fife and Perthshire each year, now has 85 members. If you are a member of the Edinburgh Chamber of Commerce and are interested in joining the golf club contact Chris Montgomery on: 0131 334 3324.

-ends-

For further media information, high resolution images or to arrange an interview contact Samantha McKay or Fiona Vernon at Niche Works on 0131 669 0333 or samantha@nicheworks.co.uk / fiona@nicheworks.co.uk.

Notes to editors

An image of the winning team 'Team Clubhouse' is attached for media use:

(L-R): Malcolm Warrack, MD of Cullen Property, presents a prize cup to Stephen Mackenzie, co-owner of The Clubhouse; Ewan Miller; Andy Murray, co-owner of The Clubhouse, and Charlie Simpson.

Cullen Property

- Cullen Property was founded in 1998 by two directors who believe passionately in the future of Edinburgh's property market
- The company specialises in acquiring and managing properties for clients looking to invest in and let out residential property in Edinburgh
- It currently manages approximately 300 properties and consistently achieves over 98% occupancy levels